I choose to ask for forgiveness rather than permission.

I didn't manage to get a blog post out to you at the usual time because of this.

I have gone as far as my skills allow. Time to seek help from professionals to get this work of mine polished like a sparkling gem that will attract the attention of a publisher.

A special thank you to my team of beta readers whose feedback has been invaluable and keeps me on track to becoming the best writer I can be.

Also, to my ex, who, despite all that, we went through, I still believe that he gave me the gift of time and space to write full-time.
